

Abstract

An adhesive tape comprising a composite backing based on an oriented, coextruded, at least two-layer polypropylene film whose one side is provided with an adhesive composition and whose film layers have a low release force with respect to one another.